Types of non-compensated leaves of absence —

- Educational leave
Time for advanced study, research or related experience designed to contribute to the professional development of the employee
- Personal leave
Time for personal business or personal activities
- Health leave
Non-compensated health leave of absence may be granted for up to 12 weeks for FMLA (See BU-PP 408) or up to 12 months (based on one month for each year of service), the two to run concurrently.
- Military leave
A regular employee who is a member of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States is entitled to military leave without pay for the period during which the employee is ordered to active duty. Accrued vacation time may be used for military leave.

Procedures —

Employee

Non-compensated educational, personal and health leave of absence:

An employee may request a non-compensated educational, personal, or health leave of absence by submitting a memo to the department head. The memo must contain the following information:

1. The effective date and expected date of return.
2. Specific purpose for which the leave is requested.
3. A statement of the applicant's expectation to return to work for a period equivalent to leave of absence duration.
4. A statement of applicant's agreement to reimburse the University for any benefits provided by the University, in the event he/she does not return to work for the agreed

- period.
5. Signature of applicant and date of application.
 6. In the case of health leave of absence, the employee must provide a doctor statement on the attending physician's letterhead giving reason/purpose for leave of absence and expected date of return to work.
 7. The University cannot guarantee the same position will be available upon the conclusion of the leave of absence (notwithstanding FMLA requirements, see BU-PP 408).

Military leave:

A copy of the employee's official orders must accompany the employee's written request for military leave.

Department Head/Supervisor

If the department head concurs with the request, the application is submitted along with a Leave of Absence Request to the applicable dean or department head, and the divisional vice president for approval/disapproval.

Continued benefits —
